You'll be given the opportunity to have direct impact on the evolution of Amazon's technologies and lead mission critical projects early in your career. Your design, code and raw smarts will contribute to solving some of the most complex technical challenges in the areas of distributed systems, data mining, optimization, scalability, and security-- just to name a few.

Many of our technologies overlap—you'd be hard pressed to find a team that isn't using Amazon Web Services (AWS), touching the catalogue, or iterating services to better personalize for the customer. Below is a small snapshot of potential work content provided to give you some of big ideas you could work with at Amazon.

RETAIL

The software we write and the systems we own enable over 50 million customers worldwide to order anything from a pin to a piano with the click of a mouse! Every aspect of our business interacts with our systems. We're the hub of Amazon's massive, worldwide service-oriented architecture.

distributed storage, index and query systems that are scalable, fault-tolerant, low cost, and easy to manage and use. These are exciting times in our space – we are growing fast, but still at an early stage and working on ambitious new initiatives where an engineer at any level can have significant technical and business impact.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Amazon tailors customer recommendations through a variety of machine learning and heuristic based algorithms that you can help shape. Not only will you be exposed to the cutting edge of machine learning research, you'll also be creating services to run these predictions on distributed systems at incredible scale and speed. You will spend your time as a hands-on engineer. You will play a key role in building software products and features from the ground up. You will use a wide range of technologies, programming languages and systems. Your responsibilities will include all aspects of software development.

Responsibilities

As a Great Oaks Tutor Corps member you will invest your time and energy in the success of a small group of middle or high school students to help pave the way to their college success. The majority of students enter Great Oaks several years below grade level, so this role requires hard work, creativity and a dedication to helping students beat the odds. Most of your day will be spent tutoring students one-on-one or in small groups. You will also take part in secondary projects that directly impact the academic achievements of students. These projects may include providing in-class or curriculum support, organizing or leading after school clubs or working with our culture team.

Specific responsibilities include:

Bolstering student achievement:

- Work closely with teachers to develop individualized tutorial content
- Assess student progress on a regular basis
- Bridge a connection between classroom teachers and the content they deliver in their classrooms with the content you are delivering during tutorial sessions
- Lead after-school student clubs
- Support Saturday Academy over the course of the school year when necessary (dependent on school community placement)
- Work with students to set individualized student driven goals on a frequent basis
- Actively participate in meetings pertaining to your role as a tutor and the success of the students you are working with

Building relationships with families:

- Develop authentic relationships with families through phone calls and other communications to share progress on student tutorial performance
- Attend family and parent events

- Create opportunities to connect with families on an ongoing basis

Assist with overall student success during the school day:

- Be present during transitions and escorting students when necessary
- Engage with students during their lunch period
- Assist with other activities and projects that directly impact student success

Qualifications and Competencies

As a prerequisite, the successful Tutor Corps candidate must believe in the mission of Great Oaks. The candidate should demonstrate a passion for breaking new ground to lead social change. A successful candidate will also bring the following qualifications and competencies:

- A strong academic record with a completed Bachelor's degree from a competitive college or university by August 2018.
- Be a citizen or permanent resident of the United States
- Some experience working or volunteering with children; some tutoring experience preferable
- A commitment to serving children in under-resourced, urban communities
- Exceptional ability to respond well to feedback and implement it immediately
- Tenacity, flexibility, passion and excellent communication skills

General Information

This AmeriCorps service role will start in August of 2018 and run through June of 2019. The online application requires you to write a brief paragraph. If you are applying through a mobile phone we suggest using the notes feature and copying and pasting your paragraph into the application to ensure the clarity of your writing.

Great Oaks Tutor Corps positions are available in NYC, Newark, NJ, Bridgeport, CT. and Wilmington, DE.
